Students enjoy meeting fellow FIRE fans while listening to a panel discussion on the philosophical foundations of liberty.

"The CFN conference equips students with all the necessary tools to lead a reform campaign on their college campuses by supplying student advocates with free educational resources, an array of knowledgeable and engaging speakers, and an opportunity to network with students who have already fought—and won—battles to protect freedom of speech at their own universities. By hosting the conference, the CFN is taking an active role in making sure that the members of my generation are informed of their rights and learn the skills necessary to protect them."
